On Saturday morning, the Florida Callers Association will be meeting for their annual clinic with Tom Miller. I've not received the details regarding times, location, etc., so please contact their president, Whit Brown at whitbrown2@aol.com for that information. On Saturday night, they will have a dance at Strawberry Square Dance Center with Tom Miller calling. You do not have to be a caller to attend this dance! But there will be a lot of callers there dancing. This will be your chance to find out if your callers know how to dance! On Sunday morning the callers will meet for their annual meeting and to elect their new officers.

Also on Saturday, the Round Dance Council of Florida will be holding their annual clinic at the Stardust Center in Plant City with Curt and Tammy Worlock as the clinicians. They will be working on Latin rhythms. The level is Phase 3 – 4+. This is not just for cuers; all round dancers who dance at this level are welcome. On Saturday afternoon, the Council will hold their annual meeting and elections. The flyer can be found at www.dancergram.com.

Then on Sunday, October 16th, we will have our West Coast membership dance at Sun City. The details are further down in this newsletter and the flyer can be found at www.dancergram.com.

The following was in an e-mail I received from Nasser Shukyar and I thought it was funny: Airlines provide perks to frequent flyers. One such perk is the use of "club rooms" in major airports. Airline clubs are peaceful respites from the noise and hubbub of the main terminal.

A few months ago in an airline club, an older gentleman was talking VERY loudly on his cell phone. Nasser, who is certainly not shy, stood directly in front of the loud talker, took out his own cell phone, and pretended to have his own loud conversation. "WHAT?? I can't HEAR you! Someone in the QUIET ZONE is talking VERY LOUDLY which VIOLATES CLUB RULES but the STAFF won't tell him to STOP. We'll have to WAIT until he either FINISHES TALKING TOO LOUD, or LEARNS some MANNERS, whichever comes FIRST!"

The loud talker noticed Nasser's demonstration and left in a huff. An airline employee then dropped the surprising news: "You just told off legendary blues artist B.B. King".

Let's go back 10 years earlier. Nasser's flight was canceled. The airline put him on another flight. Just before the flight departed, an airline agent approached Nasser and asked, "Can you swap seats with someone important? His flight was also canceled but there are no seats left because you got the last one."

Alas, Nasser had to call a dance that same night and thus needed to be on the flight. Later, a flight attendant dropped the surprising news, "You just prevented legendary blues artist B. B. King from getting to his concert on time".

Nasser has never properly met B.B. King but has already been a thorn in his side, twice.

There is etiquette to square dancing. There are bows, and curtseys, there's a way you hold a lady's hand, and there is a graciousness expected by all. I have just performed a quick Google search on the internet to see what has caused the demise of etiquette in square dancing. Well, it's quickly apparent, that it is not from the lack of information that is available on the matter! I have called many dances where three couples have been left standing on the floor time and time again pleading for another couple to join them without success. I see men regularly in shorts and polo shirts – have they forgotten the reason we wear long sleeve shirts – do you remember? Men regularly complain that ladies are holding their hands too tightly, or is it the other way? Has good etiquette faded from our dancing activity? Really??? When was it ever there? Is it listed on the teaching schedule that callers use or the newly revised (April 2011) CallerLab Basic and Mainstream Definitions that is written with both the caller and dancer in mind? I couldn't find it!

Have our callers become so paranoid with rushing our new dancers through the teaching order to the Plus level that they no longer teach etiquette? Styling is still taught by some but when was the last time you have heard a caller tell new dancers that it is proper etiquette to arrive on time and see a dance through to the end? Arriving on time at a square dance is crucial. A square dance requires four couples to function, which means the event can't begin without the full crew. If you're going to a square dance, it's also important to ensure that you can stay until the night is over. Unless you can find a suitable replacement, leaving early also leaves an incomplete square and ends the dancing for everyone. Square dances are often held at social gatherings and parties. When dancing is about to begin, couples in an incomplete square raise their hands and indicate the number of couples missing from the square with their fingers. Did your caller teach you it was proper etiquette to fill the nearest square to you rather than walking across and starting a new square of your own, and most often it was because you didn't like someone in that partial square?

Let's put etiquette back into our activity! Ensure your caller, and in particular, those callers that put together definitions for publications, stress command examples, descriptions, comments, styling and most importantly – etiquette!! May your Corner always be there when needed!
