WHAT IS A GOOD DANCER?

By Barry Clasper

The following criteria can be used to evaluate how well or how poorly a dancer performs:

1. Number of mistakes – better dancers make fewer mistakes.
2. Command of fundamentals – better dancers have a superior grip on certain fundamental elements that form the basis of a large number of calls and concepts. Examples are Circulate, Trade, run, Hinge, and Roll.
3. Ability to help – better dancers can assist others.
4. Adaptability – better dancers can adapt to a situation that represents a logical extrapolation of known material without having to be taught or walked through.
5. Ability to handle distortions – better dancers can handle distorted setups that are legal at the level being danced.
6. Precision – better dancers make precise formations and adopt precise facing directions.

7. Ability to recognize the “un-right” – better dancers realize when something does not make sense and, therefore, that a mistake has been made.
8. Ability to recover – better dancers tend to recover from their own mistakes without assistance.
9. Confidence – better dancers display confidence that they know what they are about.

The above characteristics are level independent. They transcend the material associated with any given CALLERLAB program. Thus, it does not follow that any given C-3 dancer is necessarily a better dancer than any given Plus dancer; simply by virtue of the habitual dance level. It is entirely possible for a Plus dancer to be a better dancer than a C-3 dancer, despite the fact that the C-3 dancer probably knows more calls.

Because the square dance movement has not done a good job of articulating the characteristics that contribute to good dancing, a great many people mistakenly assume that there is a direct correlation between the level somebody dances and how well he or she dances. They conclude that attending a higher level dance makes someone a better dancer.

Since we all wish to be well regarded by our peers, this mistaken idea that dance level is synonymous with dancing ability fosters an inappropriate compulsion to advance through the levels.

The thing to notice is that the above list of “good dancer” criteria actually consists of a single point, with a number of supporting elements. I think that better dancers make fewer mistakes because they have a better grasp of fundamentals, are adaptable, can deal with distorted setups, are precise, recognize errors, and know how to recover.

Moreover, dancers who make fewer mistakes tend to be more confident and are more likely to be able to help others, therefore, I think the list actually boils down to a single point: better dancers make fewer mistakes.

While I do not wish to argue that a low error rate represents the only virtue a good dancer needs to possess, it seems that it is far and away the most important.

That's Not My Job!

This is a story about four people named: Everybody, Somebody, Anybody and Nobody. There was an important job to be done and Everybody was sure that Somebody would do it. Anybody could have done it, but Nobody did it. Somebody got angry about that, because it was Everybody's job. Everybody thought Anybody could do it, but Nobody realized that Everybody wouldn't do it. It ended up that Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what Anybody could have done. - Author Unknown

A square and round dancer concerned about the preservation of our dance activity publishes this E-Newsletter. This is not a publication of the West Coast Square and Round Dancers' Association, Inc. The target audience is the dancers in the West Coast area of the state of Florida and contains dance information for the upcoming week in this area as well as major dances around the state and nation, and any other information of interest to the dancers. Publication is weekly with addendums as needed. The editor reserves the right to edit, condense or rewrite any submission. Opinions expressed are not necessarily that of the Editor. All yellow highlighted information is new. Please forward this newsletter to your membership or other interested parties, or provide printed copies to your members and visitors. The newsletter is also available at www.dancergram.com. If you would like a copy emailed to you or would like your club information added, please contact the editor at sgdnxfan@gmail.com. Please continue to support the West Coast Dancer, a publication of the West Coast Square and Round Dancers' Association published bimonthly and found at <http://floridasquaredance.com/westcoast/dancer/dancer.html>.
